Integrated Risk Management for Leisure Services - Robert B. Kauffman 2013-01-30

Integrated Risk Management for Leisure Services provides both students and professionals with a systematic approach to safety. By integrating risk management, accident prevention, and emergency response with information on legal liability, Integrated Risk Management for Leisure Services enables leisure service providers to implement strategies to reduce or eliminate bodily injury, property damage, and financial loss. Integrated Risk Management for Leisure Services uses a four-phase integrated risk management model. The first three phases focus on negligence, the accident process, and risk management plans to reduce or eliminate injury, damage, or loss. The fourth phase focuses on what to do after an incident occurs to reduce the impact of injury, damage, or loss. Integrated Risk Management for Leisure features several unique aspects for students and professionals in the recreation and park field. It covers safety prevention and accident processes in the recreation and parks field. Then it addresses how to manage the post-incident situation to reduce impacts. Last, the text integrates these two new areas with the traditional areas of legal liability and risk management planning in an effort to provide safer recreation and park programs.

Perspectives on Gratitude - David Carr 2016-02-05

Psychologists, philosophers, theologians and educationalists have all lately explored various conceptual, moral, psychological and pedagogical dimensions of gratitude in a rapidly expanding academic and popular literature. However, while the distinguished contributors to this work hail from these distinct disciplines, they have been brought together in this volume precisely in recognition of the need for a more interdisciplinary perspective on the topic. While further developing such more familiar debates in the field as whether it is appropriate to feel grateful in circumstances in which there is no obvious benefactor, whether it is proper to feel grateful to those who have benefited one only from a sense of duty and whether it makes sense to be grateful if so doing colludes with injustice, the essays in this collection explore a wide variety of fresh conceptual, psychological and moral issues. For example, in addition to identifying some new moral paradoxes about gratitude and seeking a generally more morally discriminating approach to gratitude education, relations are explored between gratitude and humility, forgiveness and appreciation and the religious and spiritual dimensions of the concept are also given much overdue attention. By drawing together serious academic engagement with the study of gratitude and a serious attempt to undertake this within an interdisciplinary perspective, Perspectives on Gratitude will be of value to academics and graduate students in the fields of philosophy, psychology and theology, as well as other research-based disciplines.

Lifeguard with emotional intelligence - Fabián Chirigliano 2022-09-10

Fabián Chirigliano is a lifeguard with almost 30 years of experience on beaches in Uruguay and in recent years in Spain. He has also worked as a Bachelor of Nursing in various Hospitals and Health Centers, and has developed teaching work in First Aid and Aquatic Rescue in multiple institutions. Throughout his vast experience he has experienced all kinds of situations, from the most dramatic to the most surprising, which he narrates in his book "De Agua y Arena. Relatos de un Guardavidas 2014" Author Edition. In 2020, Mr. Chirigliano is pursuing a Master's Degree in Coaching, Emotional Intelligence and NLP, and confirms through various studies how Emotional Intelligence affects the development and exercise of the profession. Although this book is based on a thesis project, it has several purposes for which it is considered a valuable contribution for the aquatic rescue professional, which could well be extrapolated to other emergency intervention professionals such as: Doctors, Nurses, T.E.S , Firefighters, Civil Guards, Civil Protection, among many others. Through an exhaustive bibliographical investigation, the importance of Emotional Intelligence is described and how it can positively or negatively affect the results. Theoretical bases are established about the competencies required for an Aquatic Lifeguard, where not only the specific skills and abilities of the profession and the related theoretical knowledge are very important requirements, but also the competence in Emotional Intelligence turns out to be key for the individual and team success, in group and service management. And finally, the author makes an analysis and conclusions about the reality of First Aid in Spain in matters related to training, selection criteria by companies, working conditions and other factors that converge in a difficult reality related to drowning due to submersion, reflected by morbidity and mortality rates, which do not decrease over the years and have much to do with the factors described above. Faced with this worrying reality, the author makes a series of innovative proposals based on tests, training courses and interviews with companies to carry out a diagnosis linked to the criteria for selecting Lifeguard personnel. Although those of us who know the reality of Aquatic Lifeguarding in Spain already have an answer to the raised Hypotheses and research questions, and aware that many of these concepts are not for these times, it is the author's wish that work begin on the development of emotional intelligence in Aquatic Lifeguards, from companies, recruiters and political authorities. Their incentive, added to better technical training and improvements in working conditions, is the path towards Professionalization and will therefore have an impact on better care for bathers.

Thus the Civil Procedure questions begin with questions involving personal jurisdiction, proceed to subject matter jurisdiction, then to pleading, and so on.
